NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

BANGOR,

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1838.

CONGRESSIONAL.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28th.

The House was occupied some time this morning in a desultory discussion of a resolution introduced by Mr. Barnes of Mass., the purpose of which was to refund to two members of the House $250 which they had carelessly lost by throwing Treasury notes to that amount into the fire, with some useless papers. The resolution was finally referred to the Committee on accounts.

Mr. CAMBRELENG then moved the suspension of the rules of the House, that the different Committees might present their Reports. This motion was acceded to.

MR. C. then reported a Bill, providing for the Civil and Diplomatic Expenses of Government for the coming year.

Also a Bill appropriating funds for the Naval services of 1838 and a Pension Bill.

Reports of a private character were then presented from all the standing Committees laid on the table, twice read, and ordered to be printed.

The New York Peace Memorial then came up for discussion, and was before the House (Mr. Howard of Indiana speaking) when the mail left.

IN SENATE.

Mr. CALHOUN, of South Carolina offered the following resolutions.

Resolved, That in the adoption of the federal constitution, the states adopting the same, acted severally as free, independent and sovereign states; and that each, for itself, by its own voluntary assent, entered the Union with the view to its increased security against all dangers domestic as well as foreign, and the more perfect and secure enjoyment of its advantages, natural, political and social.

Resolved, That in delegating a portion of their powers to be exercised by the federal government, the states retained, severally, the exclusive and sole right over their own domestic institutions and police, and are alone responsible for them, and that any intermeddling of any or more states, or a combination of their citizens with the domestic institutions and police of the others, on any ground or under any pretext whatever, political, moral or religious, with a view to their alteration or subversion, is an assumption of superiority not warranted by the constitution; insulting to the states interfered with, tending to endanger their domestic peace and tranquility, subversive of the objects for which the constitution was formed, and, by necessary consequence, tending to weaken and destroy the Union itself.

Resolved, That this Government was instituted and adopted by the several States of this Union as a common agent, in order to carry into effect the powers which they had delegated by the constitution for their mutual security and prosperity; and that, in fulfilment of this high and sacred trust, this Government is bound so to exercise its powers as to give, as far as may be practicable, increased stability and security to the domestic institutions of the states that compose the Union; and that it is the solemn duty of the Government to resist all attempts by one portion of the Union to use it as an instrument to attack the domestic institutions of another, or to weaken or destroy such institutions, instead of strengthening and upholding them, as it is in duty bound to do.

Resolved, That domestic slavery, as it exists in the Southern and Western states of this Union, composes an important part of their domestic institutions, inherited from their ancestors, and existing at the adoption of the constitution, by which it is recognised as constituting an essential element in the distribution of its powers among the States; and that no change of opinion, or feeling, on the part of the other States of the Union in relation to it, can justify them or their citizens in open and systematic attacks thereon, with the view to its overthrow; and that all such attacks are in manifest violation of the mutual and solemn pledge to protect and defend each other, given by the states respectively, on entering into the constitutional compact which formed the Union, and as such is a manifest breach of faith, and a violation of the most solemn obligations, moral and religious.

Resolved, That the intermeddling of any state or states, or their citizens, to abolish slavery in this district, or any of the territories, on the ground, or under the pretext, that it is immoral or sinful; or the passage of any act or resolve of Congress, with that view, would be a direct and dangerous attack on the institutions of all the slave holding states.

Resolved, That the union of these states rests on an equality of rights and advantages among its members; and that whatever destroys that equality, tends to destroy the Union itself; and that it is the solemn duty of all, and more especially of this body, which represents the states in their separate capacity, to resist all attempts to discriminate between the states in extending the benefits of the government to the several portions of the Union; and that to refuse to extend to the Southern and Western States any advantage which would tend to strengthen, or to render them more secure, or increase their limits or population by the annexation of new territory or new states, on the assumption, or under the pretext that the institution of slavery, as it now exists among them, is immoral or sinful, or otherwise obnoxious, would be contrary to that equality of rights and advantages which the constitution was intended to secure alike to all the members of the Union, and would, in effect, discriminate against the slave holding states, withholding from them the advantages, while it subjected them to the burthens, of the government.

After offering the resolutions, Mr. CALHOUN proceeded to speak in favor of their adoption. He said he should consider a vote upon them as a test vote, upon the question whether the South had any expect or hope for the redress of her wrongs from the hands of Government. Mr. P[illegible] of S. C. followed Mr. CALHOUN. He doubted the wisdom of introducing the Resolutions at this time, but did not believe that Mr. Calhoun had taken the proper step [illegible] Mr. Calhoun again [illegible] between [illegible] which the further consideration [illegible]

FRIDAY, P. M.

The course most of the Banks are taking will deprive the country of any circulating medium. Hardly a Bank in the city will pay out its own bills, and in most cases certify checks. The State Bank offers to pay checks in Commercial bank of Buffalo bills, which bills are not received by the Bank of America at all. The whole currency of the city is bills of the New England Banks, and throughout the State it is pretty much the same. If the banks at the east had adopted the course our Banks have, of getting in their notes, every man now in the community that is in debt would of necessity have to break. In the present condition of the city Banks, it is of no consequence whether they pay specie for their notes or not, there are so few of their bills in circulation that it would be no relief to the public. But when they pay their deposites in specie, then the public will be benefitted, inasmuch as the Eastern Banks as well as our own can recommence the redemption. The Eastern Banks have millions on deposite here, which they rely on to meet their notes, and which if they are to be deprived of in the hour of need, will be a prodigious hardship.

GEORGIA LEGISLATURE. A correspondent of the National Intelligencer, writes that the resolution approving the Sub-Treasury Scheme came up for consideration in the Senate of the Georgia Legislature on the 19th inst. and was laid on the table for the remainder of the session by a vote of 40 to 30. The following morning a motion was made to reconsider the vote, which was lost, 36 to 38.

In the House of Representatives a bill prohibiting the circulation of the notes of the old Bank of the United States, was laid on the table for the remainder of the session, by a majority of more than forty votes. A motion to reconsider was lost by a majority of 21 votes.

The Address of Mr. Fletcher, which we yesterday copied into our columns from the Boston Atlas, seems to have carried consternation into the camp of our political opponents. A sad change has come over the features of the members of the party. The editor of the Post now looks as "two begone" as the Locu Foco after the New York election.

Seventy young men are about to leave Boston for Navy Island. Fools for their pains. The Canadian game has been played and lost; decidedly. Nevertheless, the persons of whom we speak are not mere rabble. We hope Governor Everett will put a stop to their proceedings, for we do not like to lose half a dozen personal friends in a hopeless undertaking.

SQUATTERS IN ILLINOIS. This class of speculators appear to be doing a splendid business in Illinois. They have a register of claims in Milwaukee, by whom all claims are registered. The office just at this time, says the Sentinel, is doing a better business than that of Uncle Sam, which is situated by the side of it. The number of new claims made daily is very large, and actual settlers are pouring in from all quarters. Many of these claims are already valuable and sell for high prices. Any man who makes a claim now between this place and Rock River, says the Milwaukee paper, will find his land worth from $10 and upwards per acre, whenever it comes into market. And yet these squatters will give but $1.25 for it, and would perhaps massacre any man who should attempt to bid one of their claims over price.

An interesting case has just been decided in the Court held at Saratoga Springs. It was brought by Mr. Minor S. Lincoln, of this city, against the Saratoga and Schenectady Railroad Company, to recover damages to the amount of $10,000 for injuries sustained by him on the 31st of August, 1836, in consequence of a collision between two of the trains. The plaintiff's thigh was broken, and he rendered a cripple for life, besides suffering great pecuniary loss on account of confinement and inability to attend to his business. The jury awarded him eight thousand dollars damages. [Boston Atlas.

John and Sophia Robinson appeared at the bar this morning to receive sentence. They produced the little child, Elizabeth Bright, whom they were convicted of kidnapping, and it was delivered, by order of Court, to its guardian, Mr. Bright.

Mr. Sprague addressed the Court in favor of a mitigation of sentence.

The Defendants were then addressed by Judge Thatcher, who took occasion to speak with great severity of their conduct, and of an [illegible] counselled or aided them in the course they had pursued. ACCOMMODATIONS FOR MAN AND BEAST. It has been ascertained by actual examination, that in the large manufacturing town of Manchester, in England, there is one public house, (that is, dram-shop,) for every eighteen private houses; and in Liverpool one for every twenty! What an immense amount of money must every year be squandered away by the poorer classes of society for malt and spirituous liquors!

LIFE OF AN ENGLISH NOBLEMAN.

BROCKLESBY HALL, IN LINCOLNSHIRE, August, 1837

I am now staying, by invitation, a day or two at one of the seats of the Earl of Yarborough. He is not here himself, and I have chosen this season because my especial object was the observing certain operations on the estate. Some of these I touched upon at "Holkham," and as there are some of your readers who are not enthusiastically interested in agriculture, I shall spare them the rest. Suffice it that his Lordship owns about 70,000 acres of land lying here nearly in one body, besides fragments detached. Much of this is redeemed from bog and swamp.

This coast, like Holland, opposite, is low, and like that, also, industry has made one of the finest countries in the world. See the result in the revenue. The Earl is an extremely liberal landlord. His tenants flourish and get rich from age to age, almost like their master. I know one of them who is worth his half a million of dollars. Yet they pay him I believe not less than £53,000 per annum,—say $260,000 the rent varying from $3 to $5 the acre on an average of farms. The whole may be said to be under cultivation. What is called poor land produces its four quarters and a sack, or 36 bushels of wheat; and what is called good, a quarter or two more. The secret is partly in the Earl's own character. He has a strong practical bias of mind, takes a minute, constant interest in the details of the whole estate, and has done a vast deal towards bringing it to its present condition. It was in the situation of President of an Agricultural Society, that I first met him at the dinner on the Isle of Wight, and I was then astonished at the knowledge he showed in his successive off hand speeches (which were lectures, rather) on hedges, stocks of all sorts, and in fact every description of an English farmer's business which came up for notice. Doubtless he could take one of the farms, and manage it as well as any farmer in Worcester county can his, and a great deal better than he could manage one here. As it is, not being much here, he keeps only a few thousand acres about the Hall, and a large part of this is kept empty. One may ride 10 miles in the various winding roads upon this ground, always at the edge of the clean green sward, and shaded by lofty old trees! or if you choose going afoot, you may go thirty miles over his lordship's land in a straight line. The farm houses and cottages which you pass, mostly concealed among foliage, but wide rich fields in all directions, teem full of the ripening grain, waving, as far as I can see, to the tops of the hedges. What a possession is all this for one man! What an item, I should say to one man's possession; an estate which a few years since, as one of the family told me, when the rents, owing to great improvements, were advanced something above 20 per cent, added by that mere stretch, from $50,000 to 60,000 per annum to his Lordship's pin money! But it is time to come nearer home.

The Mansion, in the Library of which I now write, is a large high brick building, stuccoed with two prong-like porches at one end, one of which serves for the picture gallery, and the other for the servant's abodes. On the whole, it is rather a shabby affair owing, doubtless, to the Earl's favorite seat being on the Isle of Wight. This does well enough for a sort of farm house, and to come and pass a hunting week or two in the course of the season. With such an understanding, the whole establishment is kept reduced, especially as the Earl has lately taken a fit of retrenchment into his head. In fact, I am told there are not above 30 servants at this time in the house, instead of the good old allowance of 70 or so, when the family with their guests used to be here. What these 30 contrive to do, is of course no affair of mine. I only know that the "Usher," is a very civil fellow, who brings my tea, and that his business consists solely in the charge of the beer. He took me into the cellar last evening, and showed me to begin with, 16 enormous butts of 420 gallons, and 32 of 210 each, of various ages. The wine is in like proportion; and there is a fat butler, and eke an under butler with a white apron on. Beyond this I have at odd walks made the acquaintance of the brewer's premises, whose establishment, though scarcely noticeable in the little village of buildings which surround the Hall, might be converted into a tolerable gentleman's mansion. It is only his place of business, however. His domestic establishment is somewhere else. The head blacksmith has one of 40 or 50 acres, and a nice snuggery in the midst. That is a mile or two distant. The head gardener, close by, has also a very good house. He keeps a dozen men constantly employed. The steward, or chief agent, has a still better place, which looks very much like $300 a year, with walks and gardens of its own. So have some other officers, including the huntsman.

This [illegible] have been on the estate in this business, probably over 900 years, and his son is now being educated for the same. Besides him, two kennel keepers, and two whippers in must be always on hand, for the good reason that the dogs always are. About 40 couples of the [illegible] occupy, in various forms, what could be called a very decent suit of rooms, 8 or 10 of them in a long brick building by themselves. In the stable, about 40 horses are kept at present, including 20 or 30 prime hunters, every one of which has a room rather than a stable, and every [illegible] the attendance of a groom. Here, therefore, is work for all sorts at least. After all, his Lordship does not hunt, though he once did. The fox hunt is kept up from habit and a thing for his people, and for those of his family who do come down here for sport. Of course it is [illegible]

The expense is enormous, for it is with dogs and hunters in England, as with pictures and a hundred other things, that if a man keeps at all, he may [illegible] pains and pride in. Doubtless the huntsman has the genealogy of each of these puppies infinitely better preserved than his own. I know of one young nobleman's giving 200 guineas for a dog of good family, but I dare say it was an extraordinary case, for he was a very dogged amateur.

I need not notice the gardens on these premises, (including four acres in one) or the immense conservatory, with its grapery, pinery, peachery, and figery! Suffice it that all these are scientifically carried on, year in and out, and whether the Earl comes or not. I shall pass over the Game keeper, the Park keeper, and their men, the first of whom has again a stylish mansion of his own. There is another establishment of more moment near by. By a short walk over the lawn, I entered a wood called "The Wilderness," and a path winding through that, brings me suddenly upon a village of small neat brick houses. I think about nine buried almost in foliage and flowers. These mostly are superannuated people. It is a sort of hospital Village. I see tidy old women knitting at the door ways, where the sun came in, and others are at work in their humble gardens. It is a pleasant sight. It illustrates the Earl's goodness of disposition, who, if the institutions of his country aggrandize him too much, deserves as a man but the more credit for the manner in which he contributes to the comfort of so many around him. These families have a small pension allowed them, which, with an easy industry, supports them well. They are old servants—families of servants of one description or another. An old joiner has lately deceased, for instance, at the age of 102.—It is not a disagreeable addition to this spectacle of sequestered comfort, to see the spire of the Hall Church jutting up amongst the trees, close in the rear of the cottages, its buttresses and tower overrun with luxuriant ivy, and a small green churchyard in front. I return to the Library, and look out upon the lawn, extending as far as I can see. How beautiful this is, and with what care and expense is it made and kept so. You can hardly imagine the fine, soft, glossy texture of the herbage all around the Hall, for it stands in the midst of the Park, and this grass, saving the clean, hard paths, and plentiful distribution of flower pots between the trees, grows up to the very door stone. However he that owns 70,000 acres can afford a few acres like these, and afford to tend them nicely for show.

He can afford, also, a fine, ample, artificial lake, ten times the size of our poor republican (Boston) Frog Pond, and an exquisite addition to the landscape it is, with all its swans, and water lillies, and round shining borders and old majestic oaks overshadowing the waves. He can put in a sprinkling, too, of a few hundreds of thousands of fine wooled sheep, as they are wanted, just to graze about among the trees, and keep the ground looking lively, as the landscape should. About 2,000 deer, also, have the range of the Park.—I come—suddenly on a herd of these elegant creatures wherever I go, as I did also, at the seat on the Island. Here, as there, too, I find in doors, a large and valuable collection of old pictures, 120 of which, are described in the catalogue. No doubt a good American fortune is invested in this gallery, and a second in the other, and a third there is, by the way, at his Lordship's winter residence in town: an establishment I had nearly forgotten. But I will not go farther into details.

Such are the fixtures of a noble man of the Earl's calibre, for after all, I have not referred to him as of the richest class, rather of the middling, perhaps among the wealthy, or a little above. The Duke of Sutherlandshire is five times richer at least. I do not suppose there are ten men in the U. S. whose principal is equal to his yearly income, say £1,000 ($4,850) a day, which is the common belief. But the Earl has more, enough to do as he pleases, and he does a great deal of good, for he is a conscientious, considerate, kind hearted man, and as complete a gentleman, both by nature and culture, as ever lived.

PATENT FURNACE FOR CONSUMING SMOKE. On Friday last, in Messrs. Vernon & Company's boiler works, was exhibited a most successful trial of a full sized locomotive Fire-box, constructed upon a plan for burning smoke, for which Mr. John Gray, of the Liverpool and Manchester Railway Work, has taken out a patent. We congratulate Mr Gray upon having made such an important discovery, which must necessarily be a source of great profit to himself, as well as incalculable benefit to the public. We acknowledge that we had been rather sceptical on the subject of burning smoke, inasmuch as all the plans which we had previously seen in operation for this purpose, have been more or less liable to objections which have militated against their general practicability; but in this case, there is nothing arising out of its construction in either expense, danger, or complexity, which can operate against its universal adoption, but on the contrary, the smoke was most completely consumed upon a simple, cheap and safe plan. It is applicable either to locomotive, marine, or land boilers, and we have no hesitation in predicting that it will soon be in general use. Upon a fair calculation, it appears, that the Liverpool and Manchester Railway Company alone may save by it upwards of £6,000 a year, by substituting coals for coke, which they are compelled to use in order to dispense with smoke. In marine or land boilers the saving must be enormous, by burning those dense clouds of smoke which, in ordinary cases, are suffered to escape at the chimney tops, thus rendering available the vast accumulation of carbon which it contains. Two locomotive engines are now in progress of being made by Messrs. Thos. Vernon & Co. with fire boxes upon this plan, which are intended to burn coals instead of coke, the success of which we deem quite certain.

THE STANDARD SYSTEM FOR CUTTING GARMENTS, BASED STRICTLY ON MATHEMATICAL PRINCIPLES

THE subscriber has invented and patented an apparatus which he calls the Standard Measure for the use of Tailors.

With this instrument measures can be taken on the body in such a way as to apply on the cloth and draft garments upon Mathematical principles, that will fit the shape measured, be that shape what it may.

The standard system, which is based on this principle is published by the inventor in Boston, in a quarterly Periodical entitled "The Tailors' Guide and Quarterly Review of Fashions"

The inventor will be in this city in a few days, when the trade will have an opportunity of examining the work, wherein the principle of the system is fully explained and illustrated

The above patent apparatus can have no higher recommendation than the following testimonials, viz. at the late fair held in Boston by the Massachusetts Charitable Mechanic Association, and the committee appointed by the managers of that society to examine and judge of its merits, and who were tailors, say of it, that it is a new invention, and that they think it will be useful to the trade. A Diploma was awarded to the inventor

COLLECTOR'S NOTICE.

TAXES MUST BE PAID

MANY of the good people of this City have had "time upon line, and promises upon receipt," by way of polite and pressing invitations, to pay their taxes. The strong language of the Assessor's Warrant "for the collection" is committed to me, will not allow of further delay or delay. Every resident of the city, who has not yet paid his tax, is earnestly called upon to neglect no longer this necessary and important duty, as in such matters delays are dangerous

Non Residents should look out in order that the Collector does not make too great haste in advertising and selling their lands for taxes of 1837. The only way to prevent this is, by calling immediately and paying the same

The Collector will be at the City Hall from 9 to 10 A. M and from 2 to 3 o'clock P. M

To the Hon the Senate and House of Representatives in Legislature assembled,

THE undersigned beg leave to represent that a Boom from Ayers Island at Stillwater, to extend up and across the main Penobscot River through a portion of Ayer's Falls to the eastern shore would greatly accommodate and advantage the Mills and those interested in the manufacture of Lumber at that place and in case of injury to the boom above or the escape of logs or other lumber would afford to the owners and others great facilities in the preservation of their property and save to the community a large amount of property which now annually passes down said river into the stores, or below the mills where they can be safely and advantageously manufactured.

Wherefore we pray your hon body to grant us an Act of Incorporation with such immunities and restrictions as may seem just and as will subserve the interests aforesaid. And as in duty bound will ever pray.

NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®
NEWSPAPER ARCHIVE®

BANGOR,

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1838.

Our paper will be issued during the session of the Legislature, in the afternoon. We alter the time of publication, in order that we may be enabled to lay before our readers the proceedings of the Legislature the day after they transpire.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28th.

In the SENATE, Mr. Norvell, of Michigan, presented some resolutions on the subject of slavery, of a similar character with those offered by Mr. Calhoun which we published yesterday.

Resolved, That the Senate of the United States will neither receive nor entertain any petition, memorial, resolution, or other paper, praying Congress to prohibit any such trade.

Resolved, That as it would be a breach of the public faith of the nation to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, without the consent of the people of the District, the Senate will neither receive nor entertain any petition, memorial, resolution or other paper, praying for the adoption of such measure, unless it proceed from the people of the District of Columbia.

In the HOUSE, after a long discussion of the New York Place Memorial, upon our difficulties with Mexico it was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations by a vote of 117 to 55. The following is the decree of the Mexican Republic, alluded to yesterday. It appears that the Decree has passed the Congress of Mexico, but the President has not yet given any intimation to our Government of any determination on his part to carry it into effect.

DECREE.

DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN RELATIONS.

His Excellency the President of the Mexican Republic has been pleased to address to me the following decree:

ART. 1. The President of the Mexican Republic to the inhabitants. Be it known, that the General Congress has declared as follows:

ARTICLE 1. The Government is authorized to arrange (or compromise, transigior) with regard to the claims preferred by that of the United States of the North, and to commit to the judgment of a friendly power the decision of those upon which they cannot come to a determination, provided the United States themselves agree to this.

ART. 2. The Government is also authorized, in case the United States should deny the satisfaction which we should ask on our part, or delay it beyond the time which shall be fixed conformably with the treaty, or should continue the open aggressions already committed, to close the ports to the trade of that nation, to prohibit the introduction and use of its manufactures, to establish a period for the consumption of those already on hand, and to take all measures required for the purpose, and for the safety of the republic.

ANASTASIS BUSTAMENTE.

LOUIS GORZAGA CUEVAS.

Washington, Dec. 29.

In the SENATE, Mr. WEBSTER appeared and took his seat.

Mr. Morris of Ohio, presented a series of Resolutions upon the subject of slavery, containing sentiments diametrically opposed to those expressed in the resolutions of Mr. Calhoun. They were ordered to be printed and lie on the table. Mr. Calhoun expresses his satisfaction that the question of Abolition was about to be brought to a crisis in the Senate he trusted that the vote upon it would be soon taken. The Senate then went into the consideration of private Bills being the order of the day.

In the HOUSE, petitions and memorials were presented from the different States the most of them on the subjects of slavery and Texas. They were laid upon the table under the rule adopted in Patton's resolution. When Mr. Adams was called upon, he presented a memorial for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, and then said that after the declaration he had made respecting the resolution of Mr. Patton at the time it was adopted, he held himself no otherwise bound by it than by physical force. He held all the right to present petitions, and all the freedom of speech which his powerful had the resolution never passed.

He also declared that he had two petitions depending of the House to rescind that resolution. He rejoiced that, as soon after the passage of it as the mail could bring them on, there were petitions demanding, in that indignant language proper to be applied to the resolution, its immediate repeal.

Mr. Lawler, of Alabama, called Mr. Adams to order.

Mr. Adams said he made these remarks as preparatory to giving notice, that he intended at an early day to offer a motion for rescinding that infamous resolution.

He then presented a number of petitions for the abolition of slavery in the District of Columbia, which were laid on the table he declaring his protest against the proceeding, and that he held the resolution giving them that direction [illegible] and therefore null and void.

[illegible] petitions, he said, in favor of the annexation of Texas, [illegible] to refer them to the committee on [illegible] They were laid on the table.

Mr. Adams presented a memorial for incorporating the Cherokee Creeks, [illegible]

The LEGISLATURE of South Carolina, which has recently passed resolutions in favor of the Sub-Treasury system, has likewise adopted another series of Resolves, expressive of their "heartfelt GRATIFICATION and PRIDE at the admission of Texas into the family of independent nations" and further setting forth, that "the incorporation of Texas into the American union, would EMINENTLY conduce to the INTERESTS of this confederacy." The hand of the APOSTATE JOHN CATALINE CALHOUN, (as the Globe awhile since called him) is apparent in the resolutions upon both these subjects.

THE VOICE OF GEORGIA.

[Correspondence of the Courier & Enquirer.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27th, 1837.

I presume you will have heard of the downward course of loco-focoism in Georgia. I offer a few preliminary remarks, that you may rightly understand the progress of affairs in that section of our country. Its moral influence in the Southern States will be great. South Carolina stands rebuked by her patriotic neighbor. The Jackson Van Buren party succeeded in their last local elections so far as to carry a majority of ten in the Senate, and ten in the House of Representatives. This may be considered, in all conscience, a sufficient capital upon which to set up in Georgia the trade of loco-focoism Accordingly, the "Experiment" has been made in the Legislature of that State, and the result is most favorable to the intelligence, the independence [illegible] of that honorable body. Here is another favorable opportunity for Mr Van Buren to denounce the representatives of the people as corrupt and unprincipled.

The Senate of Georgia consists of ninety members, of which number eighty-nine have been qualified. An effort has been made to endorse the sub treasury scheme, by Legislative action. The question was laid on the table. A motion was made to reconsider and lost. Ayes 32 Noes, 36. Absentees twenty-one. No magician is necessary to explain the reason why so many were absent.

In the House of Representatives an attempt was made to prevent, by law, the circulation of the notes of the late Bank of the United States, in Georgia. This movement was in conformity with, and probably in pursuance of, the recommendation of the President; but it, too, was consigned to the tomb of the Capulets, by a majority of about forty against the proposition — but we again remind you, that this vote was given by a house of representatives, consisting of a majority of ten who were elected as the supporters of the administration. "Call ye this backing up your friends?" The plain truth is, that the whole country, from Maine to Georgia, are sickened and disgusted with the quack experimenters at the head of the government; and they shrink with abhorrence from the embraces of the Agrarian faction which now controls the destiny of our country. An intelligent community will not continue to submit to the evils which have been brought upon them through the ignorance, or the wickedness of their rulers.

In the House of Representatives, the Sub-Treasury scheme, during the debate, was denounced, in language the most forcible. But it had no defenders. No man, even of the Loco Focos, had sufficient boldness to rise in his place and sustain the mad project of Blair, Kendall, Van Buren & Co. Georgia is, indeed, "in the midst of a revolution." There is no longer any doubt of a complete triumph of principle at the next election. The consternation this day, at the White House, may be imagined, but cannot be described.

It is due to Governor Gilmer, to say here, that much of the change in Georgia is to be ascribed to his intelligence, zeal and patriotism in the cause of the people. Through his judicious management, it is highly probable, that the Cherokees will be induced to migrate, without further collision: While in Congress, Governor Gilmer was a member of the Committee on Indian Affairs. It is a subject with which he is familiar. His talents, and they are commanding, were frequently put in requisition on the floor of the House. His habits are those of a business man. His efficiency, therefore, as Governor, was soon evident, and has greatly added to his previous well merited popularity.

☞ MR. VAN BUREN'S SUB-TREASURY BANK WITH LEGS! ANOTHER RUN!! We learn that the young Loco Foco, who has acted as deputy Post Master at Palmyra, has been detected in purloining money from letters deposited in his office for the mail. He has confessed his guilt and run his country. It is supposed he has gone to Lower Canada either to join the Royal standard or get a situation in the Post Office Department under the Crown. Mr. Van Buren will probably find his walking depositories of the people's money, (should he succeed in his designs) quite as troublesome as he has the State Bank Deposite System. [Somerset Jour.

WEST POINT. The N. Y. Commercial says that Col. De Russy, the superintendent of the military academy, has signified his intention to resign that honorable post, and that he will be succeeded by Lt. Col. Thayer, his predecessor; the latter officer having consented to resume the command, on condition that his government shall not be interfered with, as has been done heretofore, on light and transient considerations.

John K. Simpson, Esq. of Boston, died on Saturday evening in consequence of injuries sustained by the upsetting of an Omnibus.

INDIAN FOOD. "I have been to the Indian wigwam, and asked the old chief why his race who were once the pride of the forest and died of nought but old age and the battle-axe, had now dwindled to a handful of poor sickly basket makers. He told me of the white man's axe, and said these fields were once covered with forests, that sheltered the bear, the deer and the buffalo. He pointed to his patch of maize, where cultivation required the sordid mind of the pale faces. "Give me back my forest and my bow and my children shall no more die of a cough."

A pretty commentary on that part of Mr. Van Buren's Message relative to the issue of the notes of the old Bank of the United States, we have it on good authority that the Government is now paying the members of Congress one third in [illegible] and two thirds in [illegible] unmarkable [illegible] notes. Will [illegible] President be summoned to answer to?

FIRE. The alarm last evening originated on the premises of Thomas Drew, Esq. on Harlow street and destroyed his barn only, on which there was no insurance; but he had taken out a policy on his house a few days since. There were about five tons of hay in the barn, and two cows, but the latter were led out. We learn that the fire was first discovered in the basement of the barn, and communicated immediately to the hay above. Too much praise cannot be given to the Fire Department for their exertions last evening, in preventing the fire from reaching the dwelling house.

The Hook and Ladder Company were not able to get their carriage or implements to the fire. However, the intervening buildings between the barn and house, were razed without their aid!

"The goodness of the roads, the fleetness of the cattle, and, MORE THAN ALL, the system of credits, have rendered highwaymen and footpads almost unknown in England." [Gleanings in Europe, by an American.

The author of the above will be considered good authority, we presume, provided we announce that the Globe claimed him a few days since as one of the ornaments of the Democratic party. The discovery, however, even at this hour, will, no doubt, consign Mr. Cooper to the ranks of the "Conservatives," the "Federal Whigs," and the various other denominations [illegible] the partisans, as "common places," of all who favor a well regulated system of credits." VICTORIA, OR THE DIFFERENCE IN OPINION.

"It is really amusing," said I to my friend, "to read the many fulsome paragraphs, flooding every column of a newspaper and magazine, respecting the Queen Victoria of England, and then bring our mind to the reality of what Victoria is; no more or less than a plain, homely girl, of between eighteen and nineteen summers. Were she the angelic creature, the earthly paragon, which she has been represented to be, every bachelor's heart would leap with delight that she was free to marry whom she pleased."

My friend made no reply to this long exordium, and I resumed: "Few bachelors however, who are sure of their bread and cheese for a twelvemonth, would care for the heart or hand of the youthful Victoria; for though young and a queen, she is nevertheless as ugly as our pussy-cat."

Our friend started with astonishment "'Pon honor this is no fable," we continued, "for we have had a squint at her three different times, when she was a careless girl sauntering about London, seeing the lions"

She and her mother, the Duchess of Kent, were taking an airing in Hyde Park one Sabbath afternoon, and all eyes were turned towards the carriage. "Who can that be?" said I to my friend, who had a touch of "Bond street" about him.

"Victoria," said he.

"Victoria!"

"Aye heir apparent to the British throne."

"Fudge that girl that ugly "

"Whist she's an angel she's a paragon she's a "

"Nonsense," said I; and we went on, equinting at N. P. W., as large as life, with his new claret, high boots, white kids, etc. etc, till we were lost in the crowd of amiables, fashionables, etc.

* * * * *

Again we dropped in at Drury Lane there sat the Duchess of Kent, and the youthful Victoria at her side, as plain as a pipe-stem. Now my lovely, thought I, I'll have another squint at you; and I put my quizzers on, and she magnified horribly. Oh, what a complexion! What features! What thick lips! O, thought I, you don't catch me to marry that girl for her beauty; and then I turned my eyes to witness the inimitable performance of the peerless Ellen Tree, (for she was in London at that time) and soon forgot all about the youthful the smiling the happy Victoria.

* * * * *

Again I strolled into Kensington Gardens. It was a Yankee forenoon as to time, but a London midnight smoke and fog as to appearance. I had my "sprig" with me.

"What old house is that yonder," said I.

"That? that is Kensington Palace," said he sharply.

"Kensington Palace! is that a palace? who lives there?"

"The Duchess of Kent, and her daughter Victoria," said he, with a long sigh, as he cast his eyes towards the ancient domain.

"Victoria!" said I, astonished.

"Aye England's flower the lily of the vale"

"Pshaw!"

"Whist! There there look yonder look for yourself," said he, raising his cane in the direction of her window.

I looked eagerly, and there stood sure enough, the youthful the smiling Victoria, as homely as ever, in her night-cap!

ECONOMY. Economy is generally despised as a low virtue, tending to make people ungenerous and selfish This is true of avarice, but not so of economy. The man who is economical, is laying up the permanent power of being useful and generous. He who thoughtlessly gives away ten dollars, when he owes a hundred more than he can pay, deserves no praise; he obeys a sudden impulse more like instict than reason; it would be real charity to check this feeling, because the good he does may be doubtful, while the injury he does his family and creditors is certain. True economy is a careful treasure in the service of benevolence; and when they are united, respectability, prosperity, and peace, will follow.

THE ROSE AND THE LILY. Malvini stood with her fair face close to a lily, which bloomed under a rose-bush, of a delicate texture like a beam of light, the beautiful flower displayed its fragrant chalice, above hung a lovely full blown rose, [illegible] a fascinating glance upon the silvery leaves of the lily, and thus a mutual fragrance was imparted. "Oh! that an interesting alliance!" exclaimed Malvini, and smiling, she bent towards the flower. "It is the emblem of innocence and love," answered the father; and they remained in silence. In the mean time approached Cæsar, the lover of Malvini. A blush mantled the cheeks of the fair one, even as the hue of the rose was imparted to the lily. [illegible] her father looked upon her and said, "Is it not true, Malvini, flowers have a language and language?" "Of innocence and love," added Cæsar.

[illegible] economy of the [illegible] cheaper to pardon than to [illegible] forgiveness saves the expense of anger, the cost of hatred, the waste of spirits.

By This Morning's Mail.

THE LEGISLATURE.

We learn by a passenger in the Mail-Stage, that both branches of the Legislature were organized yesterday.

In the Senate, Mr. Littlefield, of Cumberland, was chosen President, and Wm. Trafton Secretary both Van Buren men.

In the House, E. H Allen, of Bangor, was chosen Speaker, and Geo. C. Getchell of Anson, Clerk.

The vote stood

E. H. ALLEN, (Whig)	100	—
H. HAMLIN, (V.-B.)	—	82
Scattering. (Whig)	1	—

WHIG MAJORITY, 19.

A Whig majority of nineteen in the popular branch of the Legislature! And yet the Age, the Argus, and their kindred prints, gravely assure their readers, that the majority of the people of the State are still Van Burenites and that Mr. Kent, if Governor, will be a minority Governor! Fie, gentlemen! If the truth be more than you can bear to tell, or your readers to be told, can't you at least stick to probabilities?

These same gentlemen were candidates for the Speaker's chair last year. Then Mr. Hamlin was elected, and Mr. Allen received forty-six votes; now Mr Allen receives one hundred a change of fifty four votes from Tory to Whig, in one year! And still there is no change in the popular feeling! "Mr Kent's success is entirely owing to the personal unpopularity of Col. Parks!"

CANADA. The mails bring no news of importance from Lower Canada. Mr. Papineau, it is generally believed at Montreal, has perished in the woods.

The Revolutionists at Navy Island, are industriously drilling their recruits which at the last accounts numbered 523 They are said to have 16 pieces of artillery. Mr. Garrow, U. S. Marshal, recently met a detachment of men, with a piece of artillery, on their march to Navy Island, but had no power to stop them.

The English forces are concentrating at Chippewa, where breastworks have been thrown up opposite Navy Island. Gen. Van Rensselaer is hourly expecting an attack from Sir F. B. Head.

FREDERICK LAMBERT.

THE STANDARD SYSTEM FOR CUTTING GARMENTS, BASED STRICTLY ON MATHEMATICAL PRINCIPLES.

THE subscriber has invented and patented an apparatus which he calls the Standard Measure for the use of Tailors.

With this instrument measures can be taken on any body in such a way as to apply on the cloth and draft garments upon "fixed mathematical principles," let the shape be what it may.

The Standard system, which is based on this principle is published by the inventor in Boston, in a quarterly Periodical entitled "The Tailors' Guide or Quarterly Review of Fashions."

The inventor will be in this city in a few days, when the trade will have an opportunity of examining the work, wherein the principles of the system are fully explained and illustrated

The above patent apparatus can have no higher recommendation than the following. It was exhibited at the late fair held in Boston by the Mass. Charitable Mechanic Association, and the committee appointed by the managers of that institution, one and judge of its merits, and who stated that they think it will prove useful to the trade, and that they think it was awarded to the inventor.

Perkins was awarded to the inventor.

COLLECTOR'S NOTICE.

TAXES MUST BE PAID.

MANY of the good people of this City have had "line upon line, and precept upon precept," by way of polite and pressing invitations, to pay their taxes. The strong language of the Assessor's Warrants for the year 1837, as committed to me, will not allow of further parley or delay. Every resident of the city, who has not yet paid his tax, is earnestly called upon to neglect no longer this necessary and important duty, as in such matters "delays are dangerous"

Non Residents should look out in order that the Collector does not make too great a profit in advertising and selling their lands for taxes of 1837. The only way to prevent this is, by calling immediately and paying the tax.

The Collector will be at the City Hall from 9 to 10 A. M. and from 2 to 3 o'clock, P. M.

To the Hon. the Senate and House of Representatives, in Legislature assembled.

THE undersigned beg leave to represent that a Boom from Ayer's Island, at Stillwater, to extend up and across the main Penobscot River through a portion of Ayer's Falls to the eastern shore, would greatly accommodate and advantage the Mills and those interested in the manufacture of Lumber at that place, and in case of injury to the boom above or the escape of logs or other lumber, would afford to the owners and others great facilities in the preservation of their property and save to the community a large amount of property which now annually passes down said river into tide waters, or below the mills where they can be safely and advantageously manufactured.

Wherefore we pray your hon. body to grant us an Act of Incorporation, with such immunities and restrictions as may seem just and as will subserve the interests aforesaid. And as in duty bound will ever pray.

NEW AND VALUABLE SCHOOL BOOK!
THE Attention of School Committees, Teachers and Parents is invited to the examination of the "JUVENILE READER," a selection of easy Reading Lessons, by a Teacher, a new edition of which, revised and corrected, we have just published It is believed that the book is one which has been very much wanted in our common schools, and indeed it was compiled at the request of many of our best Teachers The compiler is a gentleman of known abilities, and long experience in his profession The pieces in this book, are chiefly selected from popular works designed for youth and it is believed, will have a healthy moral influence in those schools in which it is adopted The book comes at a very low price and has been adopted in a great many Schools with decided approbation and having been stereotyped is free from the danger of having any alterations made in it, which is the greatest trouble with all school books
Those connected with schools, or interested in any manner, are requested to call and examine it

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS
Decidedly the most popular remedy ever known in America!
VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM The following recommendations from Dr Jacob Myers
Extract of a letter from Dr Jacob Myers
"The Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam has been sold in this country for two years and the medicine has gained an uncommon celebrity for it scarcely in one instance failed of having the desired effect I am by no means in favor of the many nostrums most of which are impositions upon a credulous public but that which I know by experience to be effectual, I cannot help but give my approbation thereto A counterfeit preparation has been offered here by a travelling agent of Comstock, N. Y and there is also another article vended here that is strongly suspected to be spurious
JACOB MYERS M D
Millinton, Juniata co, Penn May 3 1837"
 Many new and highly interesting certificates may be examined on the bill of directions
☞ There are many counterfeit preparations assuming wholly or in part the name of this original and true V P Balsam
The true article is signed Sampson Reed, on the label to each bottle Price 50 cts
